Egyptian giants Al-Ahly and SC Zamalek collide in Friday's Caf Champions League final at the Cairo International Stadium and decide who will be crowned African champions. It is not too far to suggest that this is the biggest game in the history of African club football, as the continent's two most successful sides - and the fiercest rivals - are the biggest prize on offer. The two have been fighting for decades, both at home - for top-notch Egyptian silverware - and on the continent, which competed in the CAF Super Cup in 1994 and a number of Champions League caf with double headers. However, they have never clashed at this stage, and neither side can afford to fall in this clash between Cairo heavyweights. Venue Cairo International Stadium, Cairo Date Friday, November 27 Time 21:00 CAT Game will be shown live on BeinSports Online Streaming TV Channel BeinSports BeinSports 2 Both teams were ahead of Friday's final test on coronavirus, both of which will be without several key players after they tested positive. The trio of Abdallah Gom'aa, Youssef Obama and Mahmoud Hamdy El-Wensh will be missing, the last of which is expected to be missed after he was previously diagnosed with Covid-19. Experienced left-back Walid Soliman and Saleh Gom'aa will be absent for Ahly, while Mali international Aliou Dieng will also be missing for the Red Devils after testing positive, despite returning from an injury sustained on international duty. Match PreviewsEn of the big talking points going into the fixtures was whether fans would be able to be in the 74,000-seat international stadium in Cairo in the country's capital or not. Earlier in the week, however, the Confederation of African Football announced in agreement with the Egyptian Football Association that they had decided to play the match behind closed doors. While population safety in the midst of a coronavirus pandemic must be a top priority, bitter disappointment for the fans of these two giants who remain in a match that has the potential to be one of the most explosive things in the history of the African game. Nevertheless, expect a feverish atmosphere in Cairo before the competition and - for at least one set of supporters - after the bout. Caf Champions League final: African Football HQ of the century? pic.twitter.com/O7beVXaSwJ- Goal Africa (@GoalAfrica) November 26, 2020 In the apparent context of the collision between these two perused rivals, there is also a touch intrigue in which South African Pitso Mosimane made a strong early impression on Ahly after signing from Mamelodi Sundowns. He won the African title with Downs in 2016 - becoming only the second Southern head of the under-division – and would break a new ground for sub-Saharan African trainers if they could clinch gold on Friday. He simply can't afford to lose to Zamalek, as they are aiming for their first title since 2002 and Ahly last won gold in 2013.
